Sola flowers

Sola flowers are crafted from the stem of a tropical water plant. The outer layer is peeled and sliced into thin sheets, which artisans shape into refined, oversized flowers. These eye-catching blooms add vibrancy to bouquets and align with the trend of using larger flower forms.
